I am extremely happy to know that M. B. B. University is going to publish the first issue of the Newsletter of the institution. Newsletter publication is the perfect medium to allow responsible expression, challenging of ideas, peer-to-peer influence, and much more. Students need an outlet for their creativity, ideas, and developing critical thinking skill.

At the University level, students are essentially adults with developing maturity, ideas, philosophies, and identities. A newsletter can be instrumental in shaping opinion, perspective, and debate, all of which are invaluable when entering the workplace and contributing to society. With a newsletter, students have a voice and can learn invaluable skills that will aid them in their future. Besides, a newsletter can provide updates and information on the way in which University is moving to achieve its goal.

My heartiest best wishes are extended to all the faculty fraternity and students for endeavouring for publishing the first issue of the newsletter of the institution. I also express my hope that M. B. B. University will make it a regular feature of publishing newsletter.

Message

I am extremely delighted to know that MBB University is publishing the first issue of its Newsletter. It gives me immense pleasure to present this issue of Newsletter which will showcase the events and happenings at the University. Although established on November 1, 2015, over the years, as a young University, it has been successful to demonstrate its growth and development and is consistently trying to develop creative minds among the students and faculty members. I am sure that the coordinated efforts of the students, faculty and administration will bring bonding and make them well connected with society and the academic world. The Newsletter will certainly become a much-read chronicle on the happenings at the University and around us. I congratulate the whole team of the Newsletter which has beautifully captured the soul of MBB University with their well-coordinated efforts and I further wish them a success. I look forward reading many more excellent issues in the days to come.

From the Desk of the Vice-Chancellor

Maharaja Bir Bikram University started its maiden journey on 1st November, 2015. The establishment of this University was to make the dream of Maharaja Bir Bikram Kishore Manikya Bahadur turn into a reality. He dreamt for a scheme, known as 'Vidyapattan', for a place of higher education. And this is the very reason that the University is named after Maharaja Bir Bikram Kishore Manikya Bahadur. It is a State University which is established through the Maharaja Bir Bikram University Act, 2015 (Act No. 6 of 2015), and thereby, passed by the Tripura Legislative Assembly. Since, its establishment, so far, five academic sessions have been completed. But the session, i.e. 2020-2021 was a very significant year since the world had faced Covid-19, its impact, and a lock down during this session. Covid-19 had a profound effect on the education sector which made the teacher-student relations offline to online. And as a result, due to the implementation of lock down, the academic activities in the education sector tremendously affected the psyche of students and teaching faculties.

But unlike the other Universities, MBB University started its academic activities in the first week of lock down itself. The faculty members of the University started online teaching from their home. Despite Covid-19 posing as a threat and a challenge in itself, MBB University has organised an international webinar on "Covid 19: Issues and Challenges on Economy, Politics and Society" on 29th May 2020, probably the first in the North-East India. The webinar was inaugurated by the Hon'ble Chief Minister of Tripura Sri Biplab Kumar Deb. It was attended by the Vice-Chancellors and academicians of different institutions. Other webinars included were: An International Web Conference on Advance Research in Science, Humanities and Social Science (IWCARSHSS 2020) was held on July 9-10, 2020; "Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay and His Relevance in Contemporary World" on 24th September 2020; "Pandemic Pedagogy: Issues and Challenges" was held on 24th July, 2020 etc. among others and many such were organised. The University has also conducted all its Post Graduate Examinations in a regular manner. The faculty members have also participated in various workshops and webinars all throughout the year. The faculties have also published articles in various journals of repute. During the Pandemic period, the registration fee collected through seminars have been contributed to the PM CARE fund and CM Relief fund. During this period, faculty members and staff of the University contributed to the Government relief fund and also as part of outreach programme distributed food items among the needy people of the surrounding villages.

ANNUAL REPORT 2020-2021

Once the affects of Covid-19 were seemingly reduced, the University had also started classes and conducted examinations and organised seminars in physical mode. The University has also published its Peer Reviewed Journal 'Adhyayan'. During this period for skill development, one professional course, Diploma in Goods and Services Tax and two Integrated Master Degree Programmes in Commerce and Chemistry have also been introduced which ultimately increased the intake capacity of the University.

It was during this period that the University has also received the recognition from University Grants Commission under 12B.

This Annual Report of 2020-21 is the reflection of round the year activities of MBB University. Despite of constraints, our academic commitment towards the state of Tripura and to meet the challenges of changing global education scenario remains immeasurable.

Message

I am happy to know that Maharaja Bir Bikram University is going to publish the 1st issue of the University's Peer Reviewed Referred journal, 'Adhyayan' very soon. The journal is a testimony to all the teaching and research works being conducted in the University. As a young University, it is indeed a very commendable effort that will bring quality and add knowledge in multidisciplinary areas. I am sure that the journal will certainly become a popular research destination in the near future. I hope that it will cater the professional and academic needs of the faculties and research scholars as well. I look forward to reading the articles and achievements of the journal. Congratulations to the entire editorial team including the authors and I wish that the 'Adhyayan' will see the light of the day in future.

Concept Note:

The government of India has been adopting various measures for socio-economic development of the tribes after India's independence. Most of the developmental programmes are directed towards supporting the underprivileged sections of the society. To achieve this objective, various anti-exploitative and protective measures have been taken. The problems of tribal development, in fact, have puzzled the policy makers, administrators and scholars because the problems of hunger, starvation, poor shelter and exploitation faced by almost all the tribal groups of this country are crying for solution.

Over the years, it has been noticed that the government's intense efforts to draw the tribes into the wider economic frameworks of the country through legislative protection and progressive socio-economic programmes have not met with much success. Numerous tribal development programs have helped the tribes, but marginally. Rather, development process, in many cases, has been instrumental in causing numerous disadvantages to the tribals like displacement and loss of land, the tribal's main resource base. A large segment of the tribal population lives below the poverty line and suffers from a high infant mortality rate, severe malnutrition, various communicable diseases, lower literacy rates and an extremely slow pace of development. Almost every kind of professionals like anthropologist, social worker, bureaucrat and politician and so on, have offered numerous suggestions to improve tribal life, but with meagre outcome.

This brings into question the role of the approaches and policies on development administration of the tribes undertaken by the government of India. The seminar would, therefore, focus on diverse issues of tribal development and development administration of the tribes in India. It would also make an extensive deliberation on the challenges being faced by the government and other non-governmental organisation relating to the development of the tribes.

Objectives of the Seminar:

- To review the approaches on tribal development that has been adopted by the government.
- To examine the programme and policies adopted by the government for development administration of the tribes in India.
- To analyse the role of the government institutions and organisations directed towards development administration of the tribes in India.
- To identify the major challenges faced by the government and non-governmental organisation for development administration of the tribes in India.
- To look for alternatives for tribal development in India.

Concept Note

Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma have a great root and exerted enormous influence on the civilizations of South East Asia. Both religions were fused together to shape states and societies in the early South East Asia. Today, although Buddhism remains as the religion of the majority in Myanmar, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, Thailand and Vietnam, yet the underlying influence of Hinduism remains visible in Indonesia, Cambodia and Malaysia.

The earliest material evidence of Hinduism in south East Asia comes from Borneo, where late 4th century Sanskrit inscriptions testify to the performance of Vedic sacrifices by Brahmans at the behest of local chiefs. The dominant form of Hinduism exported to South East Asia was Shaivism along with Vaishnavism. Later, from the 9th century onward, both Hinduism and Buddhism spread throughout the region. Beginning in the first half of the 1st millennium CE, many of the early kingdoms in south East Asia adopted and adapted specific Hindu texts, theologies, rituals, architectural styles and forms of social organization that suited their historical and social conditions.

Ramayan, Sanskrit, Ayurveda, Hindu values, meditation, Hindu festivals, puranas, dance, music, sculpture and arts remain the bedrock of the culture and existence of South East Asia for the past two thousand years. The ruins of Wat Angkor and Prambabad temple in Central Java stand testimony to the great Hindu influence in the last fifteen centuries. In fact, most of these countries were ruled by Hindu empires. Hinduism in South East Asia influenced the Champa Kingdom in Vietnam from 192 A.D. through 1697 A.D., influenced the Srivijayan Kingdom in Sumatra from 200 A.D. to 1400 A.D, the Singhasari Kingdom and Majapahit Empire in Java, Bali and a number of islands of the Philippines archipelago. The civilization of Bharat influenced the languages, scripts, calendars, artistic and culinary aspects of these people. Ramayana and Hindu culture have been the source of inspiration throughout the history of South East Asian countries. Many cities of South East Asia still bear the names of Ayodhya, Lavapuri, Kanchanaburi, Chandrapuri, Vishnulok. Examples, Singapore, the city of lions, Jayakarta, the city of victory, Bandar Sri Bhagwan (the capital of Brunei. Laos is named after Lav, the son of Ram and Burma after Lord Brahma, the God of Creation. Buddhism is thought to have entered South East Asia from trade with India, China and Sri Lanka during the 1st, 2nd and 3rd centuries. One of the earliest accounts of Buddhism in South East Asia was of a Theravada Buddhist mission sent by the Indian emperor Ashoka to modern day Burma in 250 BCE. The development of trade amongst merchants of the region along the Silk Roads resulted in a further expansion of Buddhism towards eastern Asian lands, especially in Thailand and Indonesia regions, where excavations displayed the interactions of these lands with Buddhist institutions linked to trading groups.

The attraction of Buddhism and Hinduism in South East Asia was as much political as spiritual. They had political role in giving legitimacy to rulers and in consolidating their position. The arrival of Buddhism and Hinduism also brought an elaborate system of beliefs and rituals. But, such beliefs did not displace at all the pre existing indigenous beliefs and worships.

Objectives of the Seminar

- (1) To study the India's cultural relations with cultural neighbours of South East Asia.
- (2) To study and identify the socio-cultural and geo political challenges in reviving and rejuvenating India's traditional cultural relations with the countries of South East Asia.
- (3) To explore and strengthen the space of India's partnership in South East Asia.
- (4) To study the relevance of Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma's teaching and philosophy in fostering regional peace, harmony and prosperity for sustainable growth and development in India and South East Asia.
- (5) To study and analyse the scope of promoting cultural tourism and pilgrimage for economic development in India and South East Asia.

Sub Themes

Theme is divided into several sub-themes as detailed below, but not necessarily limited to:

- India's cultural relations with South East Asia
- India's Journey to the East: the Hindu and Buddhist Making of South East Asia
- India and South East Asia in the Post Classical Era
- Reimagining India's relations with the countries of South East Asia
- Religious tourism as soft power: Strengthening India's outreach to South East Asia

Concept Note:

Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma have a common past. They are the two oldest and ancient religions in India. We can think of Buddhism in terms of three main categories - philosophy, science and religion. The religious part involves principles and practices that are of concern to not only Buddhism alone, but the Buddhist philosophy of interdependence as well as the Buddha science of mind and human emotions are of great benefit to everyone.

The Sanatana Dharma—the eternally relevant principles of positive living, is attributed to the ancient Indian civilization. Sanatana means imperishable, firm, primeval, always present, all pervasively present in time and space, and eternal. Dharma, the second word, is also used extensively in the Vedas. Dharma is what supports society, and strengthens its fabric. The people are held aloft by Dharma. Thus, Dharma is not religion which is defined as an organized system of beliefs, ceremonies, and rules ordained to worship god/s. Dharma is a way of life based on a value system, or guidelines, that a group of people share and live. Thus, Sanatana Dharma addresses purposeful and meaningful living for anyone who practices its simple yet profound tenets. It provides guidelines for every phase of life: childhood, adolescence, student years, youth, blissful wedded life, and old age.

Whereas Buddhism preached Karuna (compassion) and meditation (mind training) to overcome hatred and sufferings for a peaceful mental and social order, Sanatana Dharma shows a way life based on a value system that provides the wisdom for a meaningful life of every class individual. Thus, both Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma are eternally relevant and universal for promoting peace and social harmony.

North East India is a region which is geographically isolated from the mainland India. It is a home of hundreds of ethnic groups mostly belonging to Sino-Tibetan and Tibeto-Burman linguistic groups. However, politics of ethnic polarization has reached at such a zenith that ethnic integration has become a formidable challenge. This has been disturbing the political stability, development and peace & harmony and wisdom for a meaningful life in every state of Northeast India.

Therefore, both Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma are relevant not only for building peace and harmony in the violent torn Northeast region but also from the perspective of prospects and promotion of cultural tourism and pilgrimage in the region.

Objectives of the Seminar:

- To study the relevance of Buddha's and Sanatana Dharma's teachings and philosophy for forging a regional space for peace, harmony and prosperity in the region,
- To include discussion on Buddhist and Sanatana Dharma's heritages and traditions for sustainable growth and development in the Northeast India,
- To study and analyse the scope for promoting cultural tourism and pilgrimage for economic development in the Northeast India,
- To identify the challenges and prosperity for geographical contiguity of the Northeast region with South East Asia through the Buddhist and Sanatana Dharma's philosophies.

About Maharaja Bir Bikram University:

Maharaja Bir Bikram University, established by an Act of Tripura Legislative Assembly, began its maiden journey in 2015. Situated in a lush of green landscape adjacent to MBB College, Agartala, the university intends to sail through the vibrant world of academia with the objective of encouraging imagination, innovations and ideas in the newly emerging academic disciplines without ignoring the vast knowledge that have been accumulated over long period of human civilization.

Department of Political Science:

The Department of Political Science started its journey on 10th August, 2016 as the Department of Public Administration. However, MBB University in a Notification dated Dec. 21, 2020 changed the name of the department from Public Administration to Political Science. The basic objective of the Department is to train Post Graduate Students thoroughly in all branches of the discipline. The curriculum of the Department focuses on the theoretical concepts as well as recent empirical aspects in the discipline to provide necessary conceptual awareness for further specialised studies and research activities.

Sub-Themes:

- Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma: Promoting Universal Peace and Social Harmony
- Social and Political Discontent in the Northeast: Relevance of Buddhism and Sanatana Dharma
- Buddhist and Sanatana Dharma's heritages and traditions for sustainable growth and development in the Northeast India
- Look East Asia, Northeast India and India's Buddhist Diplomacy
- Promoting Geographical Continuity and Forging Space for Regional Prosperity in the Northeast India: Relevance of Buddha's Teachings and Philosophy
- Prospects and Challenges for promotion of Cultural Tourism and Pilgrimage
- Any other topic that is related to the main theme of the seminar

Call for Papers:

Original contributions based on theoretical or empirical research and case study on any of the themes of the Seminar as mentioned above or any topic that is related to the main theme of the seminar are invited. Abstracts in A4 size paper, typed in double space (MS Word, Times New Roman, Font Size 12pt), within 200 words should be submitted to brchakma76@gmail.com on or before 27th October, 2021. ## CONCEPT NOTE

The term environment is derived from the French word; 'environia' means the sum total of conditions that surround us at a given point of time and space. According to the UN Convention on environment, environment is the sum of all social, biological, physical and chemical factors, which compose our surroundings. Ecological balance is necessary for environmental health. But our anthropogenic sociological understanding on the relationship between man and environment led to the gradual degradation of ecological balance. When environmental security was not an issue of top priority till beginning of 1970s, environmental problem is now recognized as one of the major global problems. The quality of our environment depends not only on what we do at home, but also on activities outside our border. Therefore, apart from domestic actions, it necessitated comprehensive international efforts to protect, preserve and enhance the environment. Environmental protection has become an issue of global concern because effects of environmental degradation on humans, animals, plants and eco systems have been far reaching. Climate change, gradual depletion of fossil fuels, ozone depletion, rise of sea level and ocean pollution, loss of bio-diversity, floods and draughts and are other forms of environmental havocs are some of the important environmental issues and challenges which draw our immediate attention. Pollution growth with gradual depletion of natural resources also exacerbated social tensions and even provoked armed conflicts in many parts of the world. Sustainable development, reduction in the use of and less dependence on fossil fuels and use of clean and green energy, environment friendly technologies, environmental awareness and multilevel governance for environmental administration up to local level are now recognized as some effective actions and means to address major environmental threats. This necessitated an effective environmental administration because environmental administration aims at managing human activities to prevent, reduce and mitigate harmful effects on nature and natural resources and ensures that man made changes to the environment do not have harmful effects on humans or the environment. Environmental administration covers the study on air and water pollution, waste management, eco system management, bio diversity protection and protection of natural resources, wild life and endangered species on the basis of international and national environmental laws.

OBJECTIVES OF THE SEMINAR

1. To study the ecological relations between man and environment and to catalyze environmental awareness and actions to address the major environmental threats among common people, governments, private sector and civil society;
2. To help us to understand that environmental problem is an integral part of our sustainable development strategy;
3. To see and evaluate whether our domestic actions are sufficient to protect our environment, our resources and health;
4. To develop and provide environmental capacity building for environmental sustainability.

Concept Note

Children's Literature covers the genres right from picture books to fairy tales, fantasy, comics, adventure stories, and others etc with the intention of providing entertainment or enjoyment to children. Though, Children's Literature is primarily meant to amuse the juveniles, it may also be consumed by the adults as well, thereby problematizing the very definition of "Children's Literature" itself. Literature for children, whether oral or written has always been a powerful medium to initiate children into the ways of the world, both within and beyond the confines of homes. Children's Literature had its emergence in antiquity, and it had always held its sway over the minds of the young ones enough to shape their ways of interpreting the world. Children's Literature was derived from Folklore and then retold from generation to generation as oral stories. Folklore and Folktales includes traditional stories, myths, legends and orally transmitted nursery rhymes and songs from the past. Each and every community whether be it their social history, social beliefs, culture and practices of a community are embedded in folklores. Folktales, being a genre of folklore can be considered in one way, as the beginning of a child's life. Folktales can be used to help children develop strong reading skills, study other cultures, model positive character traits, and discover a love of stories. At the same time, its importance lies in the fact that it is gaining momentum in the present world of degrading environment and globalisation. Many researchers have emphasized on its importance for the preservation of nature, culture and identity.

Objectives of the Seminar

The main objective of this seminar is:

1. To explore the rich world of Children's Literature while at the same time to find out the importance of the genre of Folktales in relation to the development of a child.
2. To explore the role of Folktales as a literary device in the context of globalisation.
3. To find out the importance of Folktales in the conservation of nature.

Concept Note

It is believed that, the Northeast participation in India's freedom struggle is a tale of valour and courage which started in the 19th century itself with a mass peasant uprising against the British and resistance by the hill people. The political events in the rest of the country culminating in Independence in 1947, found a strong support and response in this region. Initially the rebellions were spontaneous in nature with it mostly involving disbanded rulers, disgruntled landlords and tribals who were evicted from their lands. But later in the 20th century, the struggles followed the patterns of the national movements being an inherent part of them. For example the Ahom revolt, Khasi revolt etc. followed the same strategy. The Northeast region of India went into the hands of the British starting with the occupation of Assam in 1826, after a decade of Burmese control of the land. Till then, the region remained mostly independent under the control of the Delhi Sultanate or any other external power. Assam especially faced many incursions, but thwarted them. Thus, the independent spirit of the Assamese people showed in the immediate challenge to the British rule by a group of the erstwhile nobility led by Gomdhar Konwar. Their attempt, however, was suppressed in 1828 and Gomdhar and his associates were imprisoned. One of his associates Piyali Borphukan was hanged.

British expansion to the hills faced fierce resistance from the hill tribes. The Khasis led by U Tirat Sing fought valiantly against the British from 1829 to 1833. Between the 1830s and 1860s, the hill tribes such as the Singphos, Khamtis, Nagas, Garos, etc. also offered stiff challenge to the British expansionist policies toward the hills, causing heavy losses to the latter. There was Phulaguri peasant uprising in 1861 in the Nagaon district of central Assam against the repressive agricultural policies of the British government. It heralded a new era of peasant protest in the state. The Assam Association pursued constitutional methods for redressing the grievances of the native population but it also announced full support to the Non-Cooperation Movement of Gandhiji in 1920. There had been many legendary freedom fighters such as Kanaklata Barua, Paona Brajabashi, Bir Tikendrajit Singh, Rani Gaidinliu Haipou Jadonang, U Tirot Sing Syiemlieh, U Tirot Sing Syiemlieh, Moje Riba, Gopinath Bordoloi, Tarun Ram Phookan, Nabin Chandra Bardoloi, Chandranath Sarma, Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed, Debeswar Sarma, Siddhinath Sarma, Omeo Kumar Das, Bijoy Chandra Bhagawati and many others who had fought against the British colonial administration in various forms.

INA's operation in Manipur itself reflects a new dimension of the freedom movement in Northeast India. The contribution of Northeast in the Second World War is an unexplored zone for forgotten heroes of the region.

However, despite the significant contributions of the North-East India in the freedom struggle, unfortunately history continues to discard and ignore these brave nationalists while writing the freedom movement of India.

Objectives of the Seminar

The main objective of this seminar is:

- To unfold the contributions of the forgotten brave nationalists of the Northeast India in the freedom struggle,
- To find and establish due place in popular discourse about the contributions of freedom fighters from the Northeast India,
- To know how Northeast India became part of independent India,
- To explore the possible initiatives to be taken by the Government of India to commemorate the contributions of these forgotten heroes.

Sub Themes

Theme is divided into several sub-themes as detailed below, but not necessarily limited to:

- i. Contributions from Northeast India to India's independence movement,
- ii. Contributions of the brave nationalists from Northeast India in the freedom struggle
- iii. Patterns of various anti-British Uprising (Phulaguri Dhewa), Tribal revolts (such as Singphos, Khamtis, Nagas, Garos, Kashis) in the Northeast India
- iv. Northeast India before, during and after the British colonial rule
- v. British Policy in the Northeast Frontier of Assam
- vi. Freedom Struggle in the Northeast India: Khilafat, Non-Cooperation, Civil Disobedience Movement, Quit India Movement.
- vii. Political Integration of Northeast with the Union of India
- viii. North East India and 75 years of India's Independence.
- ix. Any other topic related to the theme of the seminar.

Concept Note

Gandhi, a man of holistic personality, was a political activist, social reformer, and an ideologist in the history of India. This influential character needs no formal introduction actually, as related to his contribution to the socio-economic and political setting of the country. Even spiritualism found place in his thought in relation to Indian freedom struggle. Over the past decade and more, intellectuals and researchers are making studies on different ideas put forward by the legend. One interesting among a bunch of his ideas is his notion of 'Swaraj' in democracy. 'Swaraj', the concept, Gandhi implied is "Self-rule" and the term is a Vedic one. With this very basic connotation Gandhi conjoined the concept of Swaraj with multiple senses at a time. It is to him is national freedom; freedom from English rule and realizing the power of self-rule that comes from 'within' ensuring self-governance. On other occasions spiritual freedom of individuals dominated his mind; in other words, it is 'self-rule' in religious or metaphysical context. Therefore, he actually developed a vast domain of thought including socio-political and economic freedom of individuals through a process of self-realization or rule in a democratic setup. Democracy in Gandhian ideology is a stateless version which is dominated by village communities on voluntary basis of cooperation and in a non-violent way. Democracy thus associates with several features viz. non-violence, equality, decentralization of power and like this. With these various means a true Swaraj is possible. Gandhi thus aimed not to achieve political freedom of individuals rather to attain liberation and self-rule for them which is Swaraj in actual sense for him.

Objectives of the Seminar

1. To understand, evaluate and implement the Gandhian Model of Development and Conflict resolution in present context.
2. To spread the thought and philosophy of Gandhi among the young generation in particular and society at large.
3. To promote and carry on research in various aspects of Gandhian thought on scientific basis.

Concept Note:

Public Library offers services and products to its users (common people) that enable the users to intellectual playing field. It is the hub of any intellectual society. The digital public library has been circulating the various kinds of materials to librarians, scholars, educators, and technologists since the early 1990s. Efforts led by the public libraries have successfully built resources that provide books, images, historical records, and audiovisual materials to anyone with Internet connectivity. There were lots of debate about the trends and pattern of the usage of Public Library. But it is also necessary to understand the impact of COVID-19 in this present time. Due to the affect of Corona virus disease, we can easily observe the changes took place in the usage pattern of information by the common people.

The first positive case of COVID-19 was identified in India on 30th January 2020. Since then, the numbers of positive cases have been gradually increasing in an unexpected manner. Hence, Government of India came out with a strict decision of imposing nationwide lockdown from 24th March 2020. Though some relaxation was imposed from the 1st phase of unlock, but it is till continue in the different parts of the country. Though the lockdown was the need of the hour, but questions arise as whether is academic arena competent enough to handle the changes that took place due to pandemic situation? Whether are common people getting the required materials in time without problems? If not, we have to find out the appropriate solution for these.

As philosopher, academic, social reformer and philanthropist, Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar was born on 26th September 1820 in Birasingha, West Bengal. He was one of the renowned 19th century intellectuals of India. He was called as "Sud River of Kindness because of his sympathy and pain for the poor and downtrodden people. He had extensive contribution in diverse fields more particularly in the fields of social reforms, education and development of Bengali literature.

The contemporaries of Vidyasagar Dayananda Saraswati, Keshab Chandra Sen, Raja Rammohun Roy played great role in different areas. But Vidyasagar was exceptional to his contemporaries because unlike them Vidyasagar was not only a social reformer and a philosopher, but he was also a great educationist and a philanthropist. He was perhaps the first Indian to put forward the issues of women. He fought against the practice of child marriage and dedicated his life's energies ensuring an end to the practice of child marriage. He strongly advocated for removal of all obstacles to marriage of Hindu widows and contributed greatly to passing of the Hindu Widow's Remarriage Act on 16th July 1856. He also fought a determined battle against the then prevailing social custom of Kulin Brahmin polygamy.

As an educationist, he initiated unprecedented changes in education and administration in education. He favoured universalisation of education believing that everyone irrespective of caste or gender had the right to education. He established 20 model schools in West Bengal, revised the examination pattern by introducing monthly examinations instead of annual ones. He also initiated the acceptance of admission fees and tuition fees and introduced 'Sunday' as the weekly holiday and summer vacation in the month of May and June. He brought about a revolution in Bengali education system by changing the way Bengali language was written and taught. According to him, "Education is the priceless treasure of life. Just its arrival not only ascertains welfare at individual level but paves the way for large scale development of the society."

As a linguist, he reconstructed the Bengali alphabet simplifying Bengali typography into an alphabet of 12 vowels and 40 consonants eliminating the Sanskrit phonemes. He was also key figure in Bengal Renaissance which witnessed magnificent outburst of Bengali literature with Vidyasagar being the pioneer.

The objectives of the seminar are:

1. To study and analyse the impact of Vidyasagar's thought on gender issues and women empowerment.
2. To study and find out the activities of Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar for the development of Bengali language among the children.
3. To study and analyse relevance of Vidyasagar's Linguistic and Literary works in present context.
4. To make a comparative assessment of Vidyasagar with his contemporaries.
